ATTORNEY GENERAL RAOUL JOINS MULTISTATE AMICUS BRIEF CHALLENGING FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S "TURNBACK POLICY"

Chicago — Attorney General Kwame Raoul joined a multistate amicus brief in support of a lawsuit brought by nonprofit legal services provider Al Otro Lado, challenging the U.S. Customs and Border Protection's (CBP) practice of unlawfully denying individuals access to the asylum process at ports of entry on the southern border.

In the brief, Raoul and the other attorneys general urged the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California to deny the administration's motion to partially dismiss the lawsuit. The brief discusses how the federal government's "Turnback Policy" exacerbates inhumane conditions at the border and causes severe harm to asylum-seekers who, through misrepresentations and intimidation by CBP, are turned away from the border. The "Turnback Policy" is contrary to both the United States' treaty obligations and federal law, which require immigration officials to promptly give asylum-seekers a fair chance to present their claims.

"The federal government's policy of turning away people who are lawfully entering the United States is inhumane and contrary to American values," Raoul said.

Al Otro Lado v. Nielsen challenges the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's "Turnback Policy," mandating lower-level officials turn back asylum-seekers at the border. Under this policy, CBP has used various methods to deny asylum-seekers access to the asylum process including misrepresentations, threats and intimidation, coercion, verbal and physical abuse, and "metering," the practice of putting artificial, daily limits on the number of asylum-seekers allowed to cross the border. In the brief, Raoul and the other attorneys general maintain that such practices unlawfully deter and deny asylum-seekers access to the asylum process and create further harm by forcing them to languish at the border under inhumane conditions.

Raoul and the other attorneys general also argue that states will be harmed by the effects of this illegal policy. States invest their own resources to provide education, healthcare, and other services to immigrants residing within their borders, including asylum-seekers once they are in the country. State and local governments will incur the cost of providing services to asylum-seekers who suffer unnecessary trauma as a result of the "Turnback Policy."

Joining Raoul in signing the amicus briefing were the attorneys general of California, Connecticut, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Hawai'i, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington.

INTRODUCTION AND STATEMENT OF INTEREST

1 The States of California, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Delaware, 2 Hawaii, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New 3 Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont,
4 Virginia, and Washington (Amici States) respectfully submit this brief as amici
5 curiae in support of plaintiffs' opposition to defendants' motion to partially dismiss
6 the second amended complaint in this matter. The Amici States have strong 7 interests in the issues raised here. They invest significant resources to provide 8 education, health care, and other services to immigrants residing within their 9 borders, including asylum-seekers and asylees, in order to appropriately transition 10 them into life in our States. The Amici States also have a strong interest in ensuring 11 that federal agencies refrain from actions that violate the law and Constitution.
12 Defendants' Turnback Policy harms these interests by causing undue trauma to 13 migrants which will make their needs more difficult for the Amici States to address, 14 and illegally denying members of the plaintiff class their right to petition the United 15 States for asylum.
16

17 A number of the Amici States fund not-for-profit agencies to provide 18 services to asylum-seekers, among other immigrants.¹ California, for example, 19 provided over $41 million in funding for this purpose in the past fiscal year.² The 20 District of Columbia provides $900,000 in Immigrant Justice Legal Services grants

6 immigration services to more than 10,000 refugees and immigrants each year, 7 including asylees and unaccompanied children, using an annual budget of nearly 8 $28 million.⁵ Illinois provides funds to assist immigrants with refugee resettlement, 9 including short-term cash assistance, health screening, language services, 10 vocational training and employment services, assistance with public benefits and 11 human services, and multilingual mental health services for immigrants who have 12 experienced severe trauma.⁶ Virginia provides asylees services and support through 13 the Virginia Refugee Resettlement Program. These services include financial 14 assistance (such as rent, utilities, transportation, and other basic needs), 15 employment assistance, academic integration support (including adjustment 16 services to students and parents and college preparation assistance), individual 17 mentoring for youth, adjustment services to elders, and citizenship and benefit

5 A. The Turnback Policy is Exacerbating Inhumane Border 6 Conditions and Causing Additional Trauma to Already 7 Vulnerable Migrants.

20 ¹⁴ Defendants have also recently begun to implement a program—originally 21 known as “Remain in Mexico,” and since renamed the “Migrant Protection policy will result in still more individuals languishing for still longer in dangerous and inhumane conditions at the border. See, e.g., Am. Immig. Lawyers Assoc.,

1 extensively documented the inhumane conditions outside these ports of entry. The 2 images and stories are grim, as thousands of immigrants, many with young 3 children, have been forced to stay in a makeshift camp at a sports complex, a shelter
4 at an abandoned concert venue in one of the most dangerous parts of Tijuana, and 5 on plastic tarps in the streets waiting to be processed by CBP.¹⁵ After multiple 6 instances of rain, the camp at the sports complex became a muddy pit where people
7 lost their limited belongings.¹⁶ The unsanitary conditions “have raised concerns 8 among aid workers and humanitarian organizations that the migrants, packed into a 9 space intended for half their number, are susceptible to outbreaks of disease.”¹⁷
10 Many developed respiratory infections due to the wet and cold weather, and health
11 officials also reported multiple cases of lice and chicken pox.¹⁸ Children 12 languishing at the border are becoming ill and not attending school, and families are 13 not receiving basic health and social services that the States would otherwise

1 asylum applications caused by defendants’ Turnback Policy will only aggravate the 2 harms these individuals face and increase the amount and intensity of social 3 services the States will be required to provide to them, as discussed below.

4 The trauma inflicted by the Turnback Policy will exacerbate the trauma that 5 asylum seekers have suffered in their home countries and en route to the border.
 6 The vast majority of the individuals affected by the Turnback Policy are from 7 Central America’s “Northern Triangle” countries—Guatemala, Honduras, and El 8 Salvador. Compl. ¶ 40. As set forth in detail in the Second Amended Complaint and 9 in third-party reports, the Northern Triangle is one of the most violent regions in the 10 world, with conditions “akin to the conditions found in the deadliest armed 11 conflicts in the world today.”³¹ Asylum seekers from this region flee from 12 extremely dangerous circumstances, most commonly murders of family members, 13 threats to life or limb, extortion, and domestic violence.³² Immigrants who flee this 14 violence face additional threats during their journey north. Along the route through 15 Mexico and to the United States, immigrants are injured and traumatized from 16 physical violence, abduction, theft, extortion, torture, and rape, often perpetrated by 17 gangs and other criminal organizations.³³ Unsurprisingly, these experiences have

1 caused high rates of serious mental health issues, including anxiety, post-traumatic
2 stress disorder and major depressive disorder.³⁴

3 Finally, the harm from the Turnback Policy extends to residents of the States
4 who suffer the anguish of uncertainty as their asylum-seeking relatives are in limbo
5 at the border. Many Central American asylum-seekers have relatives across the 6 country, including in Los Angeles, Miami, New York, and Washington.³⁵ These 7 include the Los Angeles family members of a Honduran family with young 8 children,³⁶ and a San Francisco mother, who has been anxiously awaiting the fate of 9 her 15-year-old son for months, after he was detained by Mexican authorities with 10 other minors as they attempted to apply for asylum.³⁷ These residents of the States
11 are being harmed by the federal government's actions, and the States have a 12 significant interest in ensuring that plaintiffs' lawsuit to stop those actions is heard 13 on the merits.

14 B. The States will be harmed by the effects of the Turnback Policy.

15 Every year, the States welcome thousands of potential asylees into their 16 communities who have suffered the trauma discussed above, providing or funding a 17 number of social services to help them realize their potential in their new country.

1 Policy will make asylees' needs for these services even more intense and 2 challenging to meet, requiring the States to divert resources from other services.

3 The States signatory to this brief have welcomed over 73 percent of the total
4 asylees entering the United States.³⁸ In the 2017 fiscal year, almost 15,000
5 accompanied immigrant children (those arriving with their families) received 6 positive credible fear determinations and were released from federal custody, many 7 in Amici States.³⁹ And in FY 2018, 16,746 unaccompanied immigrant children
8 were released from federal custody to adult sponsors in Amici States, 48 percent of 9 the total.⁴⁰ Historically, a high percentage of these children have been found to have 10 viable claims for asylum, although that percentage has dropped in the past two 11 years due the Trump Administration's policies.⁴¹

12 The States, their local jurisdictions, and non-governmental organizations
13 based in the States will assist the victims of the unnecessary trauma that defendants' 14 Turnback Policy causes, utilizing resources diverted from other purposes. Among 15 other services, the States' public schools will face more challenges in educating

5 Further, the States have invested in specialized services to meet asylees’ 6 needs, which will be taxed due to increased need caused by defendants’ policy. For 7 example, in California, the Immigration Branch of CDSS has various forms of 8 assistance for certain eligible asylees, including programs that provide cash

10 and victims of human trafficking.⁴³ Program benefits and services are typically

10 York’s Office for New Americans has established neighborhood-based Opportunity 11 Centers throughout the State to provide, inter alia, English language courses and 12 business development for immigrants.⁴⁸

13 After weeks or months spent languishing at the border, the beneficiaries of 14 these services will, in many cases, predictably require more (or more intensive)

11 populations.⁶⁷ In New York, the Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance 12 supports numerous organizations that provide health care services to refugees and 13 asylees, including care for post-traumatic stress syndrome and depression.⁶⁸

14 All of these state-provided resources will be further impacted due to the
